Early Learning Summary

- Failure to anticipate and act early
- Failure to accept reality and worst-case scenario
- Lack of investment in preparedness at a national level
- Generational resistance to remote working
- Planning assumptions based on staff absence levels and on building occupiers coming back
- Complexity of job support schemes and cutting costs fast and early will no doubt find its way into future planning
- Insurance coverage confusion

Improve your plans NOW not next year

- Conduct or review your Business Impact Analysis at a high level to ensure you are using your budget to prioritise the right areas
- People centric plans
- Review and refresh do not reinvent
- Loss of People / IT / Buildings
- Remote working review
- Involve your cleaning team or provider
- Work on the assumption of another lockdown and what you would do different this time
- Survey or debrief all your staff / customers to capture learning, it is not only managers that have the best ideas/solutions DEBRIEF – LEARN – IDENTIFY – IMPROVE
- Look for opportunities
